BRAINERD PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES

Delinquent Books

Library patrons, please read carefully.

Inevitably, in all places, there are people who forget to return their library books. However, since these are the property of the city, they must be returned to the library. CARLETON'S MAY FESTIVAL

Local interest in the May Fete at Carleton College, Northfield, Saturday evening, May 16, will be enhanced this year because of the fact that Miss Elizabeth Johnstone of this place is a member of the cast. She takes the part of a Water Spirit.

The May Fete is one of Carleton's most cherished traditions, this being the eighteenth annual observance. The theme will be "The Enchanted Flute" presented by 250 girls.

Probably no other institution in the country possesses a campus so well adapted to the production of outdoor theatricals; lakes, islands, hills, dales, landscape effects of charming character serve equally well to make a stage and background for either a simply sylvan play or the most elaborate pageant.

Last year more than 4,000 people were present. At least 1,000 more are expected this year. This event alone will be well worth a pilgrimage to Northfield. But there is more! In the afternoon of Saturday, before the Fete, the 24th Annual Inter-scholastic Track Meet, with about 35 contesting high school teams, will take place. Between the close of the meet and the pageant, which will occur at 6 o'clock, the May Queen will be revealed and crowned.

On the following day, Sunday, May 17, Mother's Day will be observed by church attendance in the morning, a great organ recital in the afternoon and a vesper address by Bishop McElwain of Minneapolis in the evening.

The foregoing certainly presents an attractive program for a week-end excursion. The Carleton Campus is now in its glory.

DOCTOR DESCRIBES LAWSUIT COMPLEX

'LITIGATION NEUROSIS' RESULT OF ACCIDENTS, STATE MEETING IS TOLD

St. Paul, May 4.—A case of "litigation neurosis" is often the result of an accident, if the negligence of a public service corporation is involved.

This statement was made by Dr. Arthur Sweeney, St. Paul, before the closing session of the State Medical association in convention at the University of Minnesota Wednesday.

He explained how the mental attitude of a patient affects his injuries. "When one falls downstairs in his own house, he nurses the bruises and soon gets well," Dr. Sweeney said. "But when a public service corporation, through negligence, inflicts similar injuries, he does not get well, but develops a symptom complex known as 'litigation neurosis'."

Suspicion, fear and hostility toward the public service corporation enter into the mental attitude of the patient, and aggravate his real injuries, Dr. Sweeney said.

Lectures on appendicitis, ulcers, jaundice and diseases of the thyroid gland occupied the closing session of the convention.

Dr. E. A. Meyerding, St. Paul, secretary of the association, said that 800 physicians and surgeons registered, compared with 500 last year.

St. Paul was selected as the convention city for next year.

A smoker was given at the close of the convention at the Radisson hotel by the Hennepin County Medical association.

Suburban Towns Lead To City Annexation Says Sociologist

Evanston, Ill., May 4.—Despite the objections of suburban citizens, the suburb bounding Chicago will soon be federated into solid mass with the middle western metropolis, said Prof. William Bailey, Northwestern university sociologist and specialist in population movements.

The borough systems of London and New York city are apt to be the solution to the problem, Prof. Bailey stated. Evanston, Oak Park, Wilmette, Niles Center, may be consolidated into Chicago as were all the suburbs of Berlin, when the German capital completely annexed all of its suburbs.

Prof. Bailey admits that the annexation is not likely to be popular with suburban dwellers, and deplores the supercilious attitude of the commuter toward the city.

"These towns, and especially Evanston, must realize that they are located in the path of the city, that they cannot hope to block progress of an irresistible force. It is inevitable that the people must give up home residential districts, and that they will become a district of apartments and apartment hotels."

"Evanston should not grieve at giving up the title of 'college town' but should rather have pride in being known as a 'university city,'" he said. "This would be the cultural center for libraries, publishing, museums, and galleries all centering around Northwestern university."

Such a place would provide for a greater Chicago; the towns taken in might retain a certain amount of self government; they might tax themselves, but they cannot stay progress by smug self satisfaction.

Chicago, May 4.—Grain futures finished sharply higher in the latest session for many weeks on the Chicago Board of Trade today. Wheat's sensational advance was steady, based mainly on private crop estimates.

NEW GASOLINE FUELS STUDIED

U. S. BEGINS INQUIRY TO DETERMINE VALUE OF MIXTURES

Washington, May 4. — Because gasoline and fuel oil consumption is rapidly increasing and resources are diminishing, the government has launched a far-reaching inquiry in an effort to prolong the supply.

The research board, which includes four cabinet officers, Secs. Weeks, Work, Wilbur and Hoover, is giving serious attention at the moment to gasoline substitutes.

Because alcohol is increasing in use as a mixture with gas, the advice and opinion of experts is being sought concerning the problem of supplying alcohol from vegetable matter and waste. The question of growing grains and potatoes expressly for the purpose is being investigated.

Increasing popularity of benzol mixture in gas because of its anti-knock and increased mileage qualities, has led to investigation of the amount which can be produced at existing coke oven and carbonization plants. The board also is seeking to know the relative efficiency of gasoline and its mixtures with benzol and alcohol. Other gasoline "dopes" are included in the inquiry.

Gasoline is not the only oil product under survey. Because thousands of householders and building owners in the north are discarding coal furnaces for oil-burners, the board is examining the gravity of fuel oil and other technical details and, of more importance to the owner of an oil-burner, the fuel value of a barrel of oil and a ton of coal.

OSTEOPATHIC DOCTORS MEET IN ST. PAUL

St. Paul, May 2. — Osteopathic physicians and surgeons from all sections of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Wisconsin are arriving here today to attend the twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Minnesota State Osteopathic association.

Plans for a pilgrimage to Europe to inspect clinics and hospitals of Edinburgh and London, will be perfected during the convention. Arrangements will also be completed for attendance at the international convention to be staged at Toronto in July.

From the time Mayor Arthur E. Nelson welcomed the delegates to the city until the close, the convention members will be entertained at clinics and lectures by many of the most prominent osteopaths in the country.

HISTORY OF MOTHERS' DAY

MOTHERS' DAY is really a very old custom, one that seems to have been brought over to this country from England. There, at a very early period, young men and women would "go amothering" on Mid-Sunday in Lent. The youth or maiden who had "gone into service" or had married, would return home to call on mother and take her some small gift, perhaps a piece of "simnel" or sweet cake.

In America the earliest crusaders for Mothers' Day were the Eagles, who began the campaign in 1904 and 1905 in the clubhouse of Kansas City Aerie No. 47. The American War Mothers, the organization of women whose sons served in the World War, has recently given full credit to the Eagles for its sponsorship of the custom at this early date, a quarter of a century ago.

In 1908, United States Senator E. J. Burkett, of Nebraska, offered a Mothers' Day resolution in the United States Senate. This was the first legal action ever taken towards the establishment of the day. Senator Burkett's resolution was not passed.

In 1912, the Fraternal Order of Eagles, at its national convention in Cleveland, Ohio, passed a resolution which provided that all the aerics in the jurisdiction should set aside one Sunday in the year as Mothers' Day.

Two years later, in 1914, Mothers' Day was officially created by Act of Congress. Senator Thomas J. Heflin of Alabama was responsible for the bill which resulted in this homage paid to the motherhood of America. The act provided only for the display of the American flag on all government buildings, on homes, and at other suitable places. All other methods of honoring "Mother" were to be a matter of individual taste. One of the most popular customs has been that of sending letters to be delivered to Mother on Mothers' Day. In 1918, 475 sacks of Mothers' Day mail from the soldiers overseas were unloaded at the piers in New York. In New York City alone, 80,000 Mothers' Day letters were distributed.

The wearing of a flower in honor of "Mother" is another way of observing the day. This charming method of paying tribute to Mother is almost universally practiced.

In 1922, the day was celebrated by services held at the grave of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery, Washington, D. C. The American War Mothers will officiate at similar services to be held at the same place on May 10 of this year.

IMPORTANCE OF ASSESSORS' WORK

THE importance of the assessors' work in this state is something which cannot be over-estimated. According to a statement by Samuel Lord of the Minnesota Tax Commission, the revenue derived from taxes in Minnesota for the year 1923, payable in 1924, was $145,416,628, and five-sixths of this depends for fairness and justice upon the assessors of the state.

"Two-fifths of Minnesota's tax is expended in educational work," said Mr. Lord, "and we doubtless do not get the results we should from this expenditure. A community often makes mistakes with public money like a family will with its earnings. A school district will be too lavish in the construction of a school house or in its equipment just as a family will erect a home far beyond its needs and means. But, education is of prime importance in the building of a nation that will endure. Ignorance puts the skids under governments that fail."

Here is a decent change in the laws noted. Each householder is now allowed an exemption on each home. As it was before, just the head of a family was given the exemption and it was found that usually some poor old person, man or woman, living alone and most in need of an exemption, paid on a full assessment.

The tax on money and credits, three mills on a dollar, is so small that people are foolish in trying to evade it. In general no real estate is assessed in even numbered years. In assessing personal property, all assessors should exercise the utmost care in spelling the owner's name correctly.

The meeting held at the court house in Brainerd was an almost complete attendance, but one assessor being absent.

HOME STUDY FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

At last we hear an announcement on school studies which will interest every parent in Brainerd. Home study for school children is regarded as unnecessary by William McAndrew, superintendent of Chicago schools.

"There is no reason why the parents should be pestered to death by their children at night," said the superintendent. "I know of only one case where home study is really beneficial and that is to parents in the case of children of foreign parentage."

The crux of the situation, as the English papers say, comes in the school organization which makes home study superfluous. "Where the organization of the schools is such as to permit adequate time and facilities for studying, home study is not necessary," said L. N. McWhorter, assistant superintendent of Minneapolis schools, in commenting on McAndrew's announcement.

In Brainerd home study seems a necessary adjunct of the public and parochial schools. That has been the rule of the old days and seems to continue and we fail to see how the Chicago educator will get away from the home study plan. Home study does its part to keep the children at home evenings. True, it may be hard on Pa to solve catch questions in arithmetic and he may be compelled to have recourse to the "answer pages" in the back of the book and may have to work the example like Ma reads her stories, start at the finish and work up to the beginning.

Home study, in fact, offers a fine chance for parents to do some necessary post graduate review work in many studies. It continues to get parents acquainted with their children's problems, in more ways than one.

SEVEN candidates for mayor addressed a political rally in Minneapolis, and six aldermanic candidates also took the rostrum. When they got through, the voter had quite a picture of the Mill City from a dozen different angles.

EUROPE'S May Day passed off more quietly than our Fourth of July.

(By United Press)
Sandusky, O., May 4.—Marine inspectors and insurance companies today began a joint investigation of the sinking of the Sandsucker, Kelly Island off Point Pelee late Saturday in which nine lives were lost.

Authorities want to know why four boats steamed by within a stone's throw of the overturned steamer without offering aid to a dozen men clinging to her keel. Seven members of the crew were saved from the wreck by coast guard cutters. Divers today are searching for the bodies of the nine men who were drowned. The boat went down when water poured in through a hole in her side left by the sandsucker tug. Indications are that she was overloaded.

Tampa, May 4.—William Jennings Bryan has taken strong exception to published stories that he has become a millionaire through his Florida real estate investments.

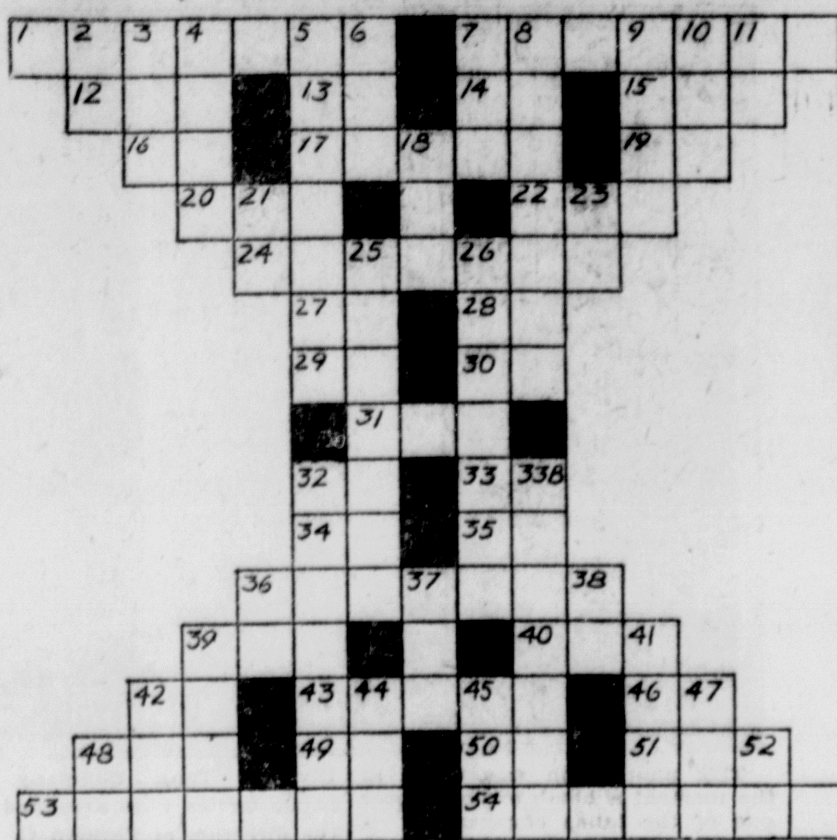

But he admits he expects to have around $500,000 when he gets out of real estate and places his money in government bonds.

Mr. Bryan, who has lectured daily during the season in behalf of a development enterprise at Miami, has written from his home at Coconut Grove to the Tampa Morning Tribune a protest against "unfriendly" editorials denoting him a real estate millionaire.

"I am not a millionaire—far from it—and never shall be, but I have been fortunate in the matter of finances," Mr. Bryan writes. "There has not been a year since my first nomination in which I could not have made a million had I taken the side of privilege and favoritism. I preferred to make money more slowly, mostly by lecturing, and have accumulated all I need."

"When we moved from Nebraska we gave our home valued at $75,000 to the Methodist church for a hospital. The value of that gift alone was more than one-tenth of all the profits I ever will receive on real estate. Our subscription to churches

What Else Was There for Millicent to Do?

When Mrs. Gray came home Millicent met her at the door; she seemed bursting with news.

"Mother!"

"Well, dear?"

"What do you think Robert and that Jones boy did this afternoon?"

"Why, nothing bad, I hope—"

"Mother!" Millicent paused impressively. "They went and they built—a fire! Yes! With kerosene! Out behind the chicken coop where you told 'em they never, never must!"

"Millicent! Your little brother! Why, he might have—but why didn't you stop him?"

"Mother, told him, and I told him, and he said he would too, and I took him by the shoulder and shook—"

But Mrs. Gray was seized with a sudden suspicion. "Millicent, you know I keep the kerosene locked in the storeroom, and Robert doesn't know where I keep the key. Look me in the eye, Millicent. How did he get that kerosene?"

Millicent's eyelids flickered. "Well, you see, mother—er—when I saw that Robert and that Jones boy were determined to build a fire, why—er—I had to get the things for 'em, didn't I, and superintend 'em, didn't I?"—Youth's Companion.

His Gratitude Greater Than His Knowledge

A Filipino boy who had studied English in a Hawaiian night school sent the following letter to a white man who had befriended him and who had made him a present of some pictures and a shirt:

"I received your kind and welcome letter from you, so, I in it, I was very, very glad to hear from you that you so stated at present in good health and fiscal condition. At the second how glad I am and your sister that you were received of our picture in that brilliant afternoon, and so, by this time we were very pleasant that you will keep it so well the same as our bodies always talking and caring for you here. And so, even that picture is not very personally playing of your spirit so, be carefully like so as you body. About the shirt is coming to in my hand, I full of joy and a merry heart so that you did not forget of your promise to me, and now, it is very thanking at the heaven and you of your truly remember and present of this your brother did not know how to forget asking of God at the heaven that he always caring and protecting to you here day and night and far of badly misfortune."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Names for Nautical Fare

The sailor resembles the quick order restaurant waiter in that he invariably has a pet name for articles of diet. Salt beef, that standby of the menu at sea, was known during the Nineteenth century as "junk," "old horse," "salt horse" or "salt junk." It was responsible, held one writer of sea stories, for the mahogany complexion of sailors, which was commonly attributed to a combination of rum and the weather. A stew answered to the name of "lobscouse," and was made of salt beef, biscuits and potatoes, seasoned highly with pepper. A dish of cold fish and potatoes was labeled "twice-laid," while a pudding of dried peas boiled in a cloth was welcomed by the sailors under the name of "dog's body." Ship biscuits were even then called "hardtack," while soft, white bread was christened "soft tack" or "soft tommy."

The Telephone

Elizabeth was three years old and, what is more, Elizabeth, like most small girls, was very fond of games of "make believe." Her latest delight in the realm of fancy was "playing telephones," a game of which she never grew tired.

Her grandmother was well aware of Elizabeth's fancy and one night, when the little girl was proving obstinate about going to have her bath, the old lady thought she would try a little strategy.

Grandmother (holding one end of the toy telephone)—Hello! Is that Elizabeth?

Elizabeth (very delighted)—Yes, grandma!

Grandmother—Well, come along, Elizabeth, it's time for your bath.

Elizabeth (dropping receiver)—Wrong number!

Made Lonely Journey

A woman farmer in a lonely part of South Africa, Mrs. Ida Francis, has just shown that in luck and endurance British women settlers are not behind the men.

About two months ago a cyclone devastated her farm, which lies beyond the western fringe of the desolate Kalahari desert; and then came floods which destroyed the food and shelter for her cattle. The only way to save her animals was to drive them 400 miles across the desert to her son's farm, and this she did, unaided.

She found that many of the water holes in the desert had dried up, and sometimes she had to ward off attacks by lions with her rifle; but she kept steadily on, and in the end brought nearly all her charges through safely. —Family Herald.

Only Real Growth

Some men grow, others just swell up. It most frequently happens that the latter swell in the head, rather than elsewhere, and a little money largely contributes to this. True growth is marked by development of mind, heart, and soul.—Grit.

Origin of Arabian Horse Never Traced

The early history of the Arabian horse is shrouded in that impenetrable veil beyond which investigators have been unable to discover a satisfactory path to knowledge.

Recognizing the thoroughbred as a fixed type of highest quality, resulting from painstaking and careful mating to obtain particular results, many students are agreed that the Arabian might have been originated and perpetuated in the same way, says the National Geographic Magazine. On the other hand, the Arabian and the Barb of northern Africa are so alike, and yet so distinct in every possible way from the ancient horses of the steppes and of the European areas, that admirers of the Arabian and Barb are unwilling to assign them to any but a distinct classification of their own.

There have been many hundreds of books written on the horse. A lifetime devoted to the study has brought the conviction that a large majority of these writings, as far as examined by me, contained little original matter, and that those which may be regarded as authoritative must be considered in the broad light of recorded history and of scientific discoveries in order to assign a correct value to their conclusions.

The preponderance of evidence favors the belief that the Arabian horses were obtained through Egypt, from Libyan tribes of northern Africa, and that by long and careful mating the superior type of Arabian horse has been maintained through many centuries.

Scriptures Say Little of the Barber's Art

The word barber is only once mentioned in the Scriptures, namely, in Ezekiel 5:1, which reads: "And thou, son of man, take thee a sharp knife, take thee a barber's razor, and cause it to pass upon thine head and upon thine beard."

Although barbers are not expressly mentioned, yet from the constant mention of shaving and the incident of Delilah sending for a man to shave Samson there can be no doubts that his class existed among the ancients. The Hebrews were particularly careful of their head and beard, and all seem to have applied the razor except the Nazirites, who were untouched by it from their birth. The Egyptian barbers were called khak or shavers, and they are represented at work in a tomb of Beni-Hassan, of the Twelfth dynasty, holding their razors in the hand, which have a short cylindrical handle, with a broad, flat blade of bronze on a line with the axis of the handle.

Rover's Friend

Rover, the pet dog owned by Walter Pratt of Bowdoinham, Me., gets along famously with the family cat, and the cat always sleeps at night between the paws of Rover. One night, after the family had retired, it was aroused by a scratching and a low barking at the front door. When the door was opened in walked the cat, with one foot caught in a trap; behind came Rover, carefully holding up the chain of the trap. Far up a neighboring stream trappers had set traps for muskrats, and Kitty evidently walked into one. Rover must have heard her cry and gone to the rescue, for he had evidently searched, found the trapped kitten and lifted the trap from the water; then freeing his friend as much as possible, carried the chain all the way home.—New York World.

Tree Toad Changes Color

It is a well-known fact that tree toads or tree frogs can change their color through a considerable range, from nearly white to nearly black, in harmony with the surface on which they are resting. Thus they take on the hues of the trees and shrubs on which they live. The tree frogs form the connecting link between the true frogs and toads. They live chiefly in trees which they climb by means of their claw-shaped toes. They are small and are more active and brighter in color than true frogs. They utter loud piping noises. Even though these creatures live in trees they return to the water to lay their eggs. The hind legs are long as in ordinary frogs, but since they jump very little if at all the muscles of these limbs are slightly developed.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Animals Fight Like Men

The armaments of animals are strikingly like those used by man. There are few means of offense and defense used by soldiers that are unlike what may be found in the animal and also the insect kingdom. A study of the methods of defense among animals is most interesting and instructive. Nature's habit of using the fighting instinct of animals as one of the greatest means for the development and the survival of species must be combated before even the fighting instinct in man is quenched.

Strong for Honor System

It was proposed to establish the honor system in a large eastern penitentiary. The matter was put up to the prisoners themselves, it being figured that they would know better than anyone else whether they could play the game honorably. It was put to a vote.

"Hey, Muley," said one tough citizen to another, "did yer vote for the honor system?"

"Sure, kid, four times."—Jackson Gazette.

Value of Antitoxins Explained by Doctor

Toxins are the poisons of disease and produce the symptoms common to the disease after circulating through the blood.

Antitoxins are substances that work against or neutralize the toxins in any given cases, and they are produced by the use of the bacteria of the toxins. These are injected into an animal, usually a horse, in increasing doses, until it becomes habituated to them and is no longer made ill by them. The immunity or resistance resides in the blood, which has now developed a defense mechanism against the poison.

The animal's blood is then drawn off in small quantities, filtered and purified. This blood is in turn injected into the blood of a man, where it exerts the same protecting influence against the particular toxin by which it was produced as it did in the horse.

This is very briefly the nature and mode of operation of antitoxin serums. The use of an antitoxin in diphtheria has already saved countless lives and has changed the once dreaded and fatal disease to a rather simple complaint if diagnosed early and treated with antitoxin.

The discoveries of the Dicks and of Dochez promise to give the same relief from scarlet fever when methods, originated only in 1924, are perfected for this particular disease.—Dr. Walter B. James in the Outlook.

"Prettiness" Makes No Appeal to Normal Boy

When nature hands on the good points of parents she invariably seems to be more generous to the boys than to the girls. Curly hair, long eyelashes and good complexions go to the boys more frequently than to the girls.

Notice the boys with natural "marcel" waves and curling eyelashes, and notice how they value them. A girl would be proud of them, but most men and boys are mortally ashamed to possess these advantages. They blush every time any one mentions eyelashes, while the curls are given frequent applications of water and brilliantine to restrain their wayward tendencies, says London Answers.

All this, while less fortunate sisters try vainly to play the coquette with scanty, sandy eyelashes, and spend a small fortune at the hairdresser's in an endeavor to take the lankness out of their uninteresting tresses!

Real auburn tresses, too, are more often than not handed on to the boys. But there is one consolation. A girl thus endowed may refer to her tresses as "titian red," but a boy is never allowed to imagine that he is anything else but "ginger!"

Cure for Blisters

Blisters, caused by the shoe rubbing the foot, develop into a real painful ulcer if they are not properly treated, Mr. Mann of Anytown learned.

If pricked, some disinfectant should be applied immediately. The best way to let the water out is to pass a bit of vaseline thread through the blister.

When the blister is on the sole of the foot where the skin is thick, take a fine white thread and grease it well with borated or pure vaseline.

Thread a coarse needle and pass it through the blister from one end to the other. Cut the thread on each side and cover the spot with a bit of vaseline. Next day draw the thread out. The blister will be gone.

Blisters on the hand may be pricked with a needle and then covered with a layer of collodion one ounce, castor oil eight grains; soft turpentine eight grains. Two or three coats are required.

Geese on Guard

Wild geese are extremely wary, and take nothing for granted. While feeding they have a perfect system of sentries. Not content with this, every now and then two or three will fly round high up to see that nothing is even approaching them from a distance.

Their hearing is very acute, and it is said their sense of smell is also. Certainly, if they are approached down wind, they are up and away at once, even if the greatest care has been taken to keep out of sight.

They have a cry like a pack of hounds, which may have given rise to many of the legends of ghostly packs that are said to hunt an equally ghostly fox at night.

Teacher Blushed

It was a lesson on punctuation, and Jimmy was almost asleep at his desk. "Now," said the teacher, "if I say, 'I must leave, as I have an engagement—' By the way, what is the time? I place a 'dash' after 'engagement' because the sentence is broken off abruptly."

At that moment she caught sight of Jimmy.

"Now then, Jimmy, you are not listening. What was I saying?" she asked him.

"Please, Miss Smith," said Jimmy, with a start, "you were telling us you said 'dash' because your engagement was broken off abruptly!"

Wife Adds to His Fame

Hepplewhite was one of the eminent furniture finishers and designers who flourished under the reign of the Georges in England, and whose furniture was in vogue about the time of the American Revolution. When he died in 1788 his wife carried on his work and produced other pieces and original designs that were very popular for several decades. Much of the Hepplewhite work was done in walnut and in light woods.

SOIL AND WEATHER GOOD FOR CROPS

St. Paul, May 4.—"General soil and weather conditions have been very favorable the last half of the month," according to the semi-monthly crop report of Paul H. Kirk, Minnesota agricultural statistician.

"In most sections of the state early seeded grain covers the ground nicely," said the report. "Winter wheat and rye are reported as making satisfactory growth. Pastures are reported in good condition. General labor conditions are satisfactory, as a rule, in that there is sufficient help to meet the demand.

"Preparations of ground for corn and potatoes is progressing under very favorable conditions. Reports still indicate a decrease in both of these crops from last year. Much of the flax crop is seeded.

"Reports from the extreme northwest indicate that there was less plowing than usual and due to the wet fall this may have the effect of curtailing the crop acreages in this particular section.

"Livestock is reported in good condition. On the whole general crop and livestock prospects are very satisfactory."

What Else Was There for Millicent to Do?

When Mrs. Gray came home Millicent met her at the door; she seemed bursting with news.

"Mother!"

"Well, dear?"

"What do you think Robert and that Jones boy did this afternoon?"

"Why, nothing bad, I hope—"

"Mother!" Millicent paused impressively. "They went and they built—a fire! Yes! With kerosene! Out behind the chicken coop where you told 'em they never, never must!"

"Millicent! Your little brother! Why, he might have—but why didn't you stop him?"

"Mother, told him, and I told him, and he said he would too, and I took him by the shoulder and shook—"

But Mrs. Gray was seized with a sudden suspicion. "Millicent, you know I keep the kerosene locked in the storeroom, and Robert doesn't know where I keep the key. Look me in the eye, Millicent. How did he get that kerosene?"

Millicent's eyelids flickered. "Well, you see, mother—when I saw that Robert and that Jones boy were determined to build a fire, why—I had to get the things for 'em, didn't I, and superintend 'em, didn't I?"—Youth's Companion.

His Gratitude Greater Than His Knowledge

A Filipino boy who had studied English in a Hawaiian night school sent the following letter to a white man who had befriended him and who had made him a present of some pictures and a shirt:

"I received your kind and welcome letter from you, so, I in it, I was very, very glad to hear from you that you so stated at present in good health and fiscal condition. At the second how glad I am and your sister that you were received of our picture in that brilliant afternoon, and so, by this time we were very pleasant that you will keep it so well the same as our bodies always talking and caring for you here. And so, even that picture is not very personally playing of your spirit so, be carefully like so as you body. About the shirt is coming to in my hand, I full of joy and a merry heart so that you did not forget of your promise to me, and now, it is very thinking at the heaven and of your truly remember and present of this your brother did not know how to forget asking of God at the heaven that he always caring and protecting to you here day and night and far of badly misfortune."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Names for Nautical Fare

The sailor resembles the quick order restaurant waiter in that he invariably has a pet name for articles of diet. Salt beef, that standby of the menu at sea, was known during the Nineteenth century as "junk," "old horse," "salt horse" or "salt junk." It was responsible, held one writer of sea stories, for the mahogany complexion of sailors, which was commonly attributed to a combination of rum and the weather. A stew answered to the name of "lobscouse," and was made of salt beef, biscuits and potatoes, seasoned highly with pepper. A dish of cold fish and potatoes was labeled "twice-laid," while a pudding of dried peas boiled in a cloth was welcomed by the sailors under the name of "dog's body." Ship biscuits were even then called "hardtack," while soft, white bread was christened "soft tack" or "soft Tommy."

The Telephone

Elizabeth was three years old and, what is more, Elizabeth, like most small girls, was very fond of games of "make believe." Her latest delight in the realm of fancy was "playing telephones," a game of which she never grew tired.

Her grandmother was well aware of Elizabeth's fancy and one night, when the little girl was proving obstinate about going to have her bath, the old lady thought she would try a little strategy.

Grandmother (holding one end of the toy telephone)—Hello! Is that Elizabeth?

Elizabeth (very delighted)—Yes, grandma!

Grandmother—Well, come along, Elizabeth, it's time for your bath.

Elizabeth (dropping receiver)—Wrong number!

Made Lonely Journey

A woman farmer in a lonely part of South Africa, Mrs. Ida Francis, has just shown that in luck and endurance British women settlers are not behind the men.

About two months ago a cyclone devastated her farm, which lies beyond the western fringe of the desolate Kalahari desert; and then came floods which destroyed the food and shelter for her cattle. The only way to save her animals was to drive them 400 miles across the desert to her son's farm, and this she did, unaided.

She found that many of the water holes in the desert had dried up, and sometimes she had to ward off attacks by lions with her rifle; but she kept steadily on, and in the end brought nearly all her charges through safely. —Family Herald.

Only Real Growth

Some men grow, others just swell up. It most frequently happens that the latter swell in the head, rather than elsewhere, and a little money largely contributes to this. True growth is marked by development of mind, heart, and soul.—Grit.

Handy Helps to Garden Plan

Many people make plans of gardens and then forget about them and plant as the whim seizes them when they confront the soil with a package of seeds in hand. Best results are obtained by sticking closely to a plan once it has been figured out and not trusting to chance and snap judgment. Later in the season many puzzles are likely to arise as to where to plant packet and progress across the garden. It will systematize the work of seed sowing and save a great deal of time. In addition to putting in the labels of seed which is to be sown, place labels with the dates where later sowings and seeds which must wait until safe from frost are to go. The garden plan will then be neatly and accurately succession crops, and much time and effort will be wasted.

When the plan has been drawn, the best way is to stake it out on the ground. This is easily done and requires only a few moments' work, after which seed sowing can go along swimmingly. Stick a pot label, little wooden picket, sold cheaply at seed houses, at the head of each row bearing the name of the seed that is to go in that particular row. Stake out the entire garden in this manner and then arrange the seed packets in order to correspond with the labels, and start at the first label and the top y transferred from paper to the soil and the paper can be laid away to wait for notes later in the season.

If the paper plan has been drawn to scale as it should be it is an easy matter to label out the rows on a tape measure.

The garden plan is the blue print, so to speak, with the specifications for the garden you are to build. If it has been worked out in the careful detail it should be, it will be a simple matter to follow it to the dot and the results will prove the efficiency of gardening according to prearranged plan.

ANOTHER BATTLE ON TAXES STARTS

UNIVERSITY ASKS THAT LAND BE EXEMPTED FROM LEVY

Minneapolis, May 4.—County authorities are facing another tax-exempt university property case.

This time the University of Minnesota has come in with a petition to abate taxes on two pieces of property at the northwest corner of Iglehart ave. and Wabasha st. between Summit and Central aves.

The property has a gross value of $57,250 and an assessed value of $22,900. The university claims exemption of the property on the ground that it belongs to a state educational institution.

But, according to E. A. Young, county assessor, the university has entered into a 99-year lease of the property to Alexander and Isaac Summerfield by which rentals ranging from $3,000 per annum to $9,000 per annum for each 25-year period are provided.

The property thus becomes subject to use for business or commercial purposes, said Mr. Young, and he is preparing to fight the claim for tax exemption.

A similar situation was precipitated recently when Hamline university made a long lease of property, it recently acquired at 4th and St. Peter sts. The board of abatement under a ruling of the county attorney was required to allow the tax exemption which was provided in the original charter between the state and the university.

FORESTRY PROBLEMS CONFRONT MINNESOTA

(By United Press)

St. Paul, May 2.—Forestry problems confronting residents of Minnesota were discussed at a meeting of the Izaak Walton League of America, staged at the Athletic club, by C. A. Sherman, assistant United States forester, and Will H. Dilg, national president of the league.

Every tree planted represents a high type of investment, Mr. Dilg pointed out. Planting trees is as essential as protecting existing forests, he said.

"Trees are money," Mr. Dilg said. "The dollar we carry in our pocket is printed on part of that tree. But it is also adding dollars to your pocket—if you will let it."

U. S. TO TAKE A PROMINENT PART IN GENEVA PARLEY

Rear Admiral A. T. Long and Brigadier General Cullen L. H. Ruggles, assistant chief of ordnance, U. S. army, are the other members.

Technical advisers attached to the delegation include: Charles E. Her-ring, commercial attaché at Berlin; Alan F. Winslow, secretary of legation at Bern; Major George V. Strong and Commander Herbert F. Leary.

The conference agenda will consist of a draft convention, drawn up in various preliminary meetings at Geneva and Paris during the last two years which were attended by Joseph C. Grew, now Under Secretary of State, and Minister Gibson. A new agreement is necessary because the 1919 convention of Saint Germaine did not go into effect and was not acceptable to the United States. It is agreed that the Brussels Act of 1890, regulating traffic in arms and munitions in certain regions, no longer meets present conditions.

The Geneva Draft

The draft convention for consideration at Geneva embodies the general principles that

1. Shipment of arms and war material should in time of peace be restricted to recognized governments pursuant to a control to be exercised by each of the exporting states.

2. Full publicity should be given to the international trade in arms.

3. Within certain areas of the world (African zones, for example) where importation of arms is particularly open to objection, there should be a further and more rigorous supervision of the trade.

4. Special supervision of the maritime zone adjacent to certain countries is necessary to insure the efficacy of the measures adopted by the various governments both as regards import of arms into these countries and export from their own territory.

Under act of congress of 1898 as twice amended, the president of the United States is empowered to regulate export of arms. President Coolidge's recent embargo on arms to Cuba is a case in point. During the attempted de la Huerta counter-revolution in Mexico, this government stopped shipment of munitions to the revolting faction and sold arms to the Obregon government.

As a part of the Administration's general policy of supporting law and order and constitutional regimes in Latin America, this government is unwilling to enter into any agreement at Geneva which would prevent it from selling arms to such Latin American governments. Negotiations are now in progress whereby the war department will sell arms to the government of Honduras, for instance.

Likewise in the matter of regulating private manufacture of arms, this government feels that it is in a somewhat different situation than certain European nations, where there is governmental control of arms manufacture. Under the Constitution this government takes the position that it cannot interfere with private manufacture.

Odd Lightning Facts

Photography reveals many things about lightning. One is that a great many flashes are multiple, consisting of several discharges in rapid succession along the same path, says Nature Magazine. These flashes are studied by means of a camera mounted on a vertical axis and turned from side to side by clockwork. The pictures are taken at night, the shutter being left open until a flash occurs.

Handy Helps to Garden Plan

Many people make plans of gardens and then forget about them and plant as the whim seizes them when they confront the soil with a package of seeds in hand. Best results are obtained by sticking closely to a plan once it has been figured out and not trusting to chance and snap judgment. Later in the season many puzzles are likely to arise as to where to plant packet and progress across the garden. It will systematize the work of seed sowing and save a great deal of time.

In addition to putting in the labels of seed which is to be sown, place labels with the dates where later sowings and seeds which must wait until safe from frost are to go. The garden plan will then be neatly and accurately succession crops, and much time and effort will be wasted.

When the plan has been drawn, the best way is to stake it out on the ground. This is easily done and requires only a few moments' work, after which seed sowing can go along swimmingly. Stick a pot label, little wooden picket, sold cheaply at seed houses, at the head of each row bearing the name of the seed that is to go in that particular row. Stake out the entire garden in this manner and then arrange the seed packets in order to correspond with the labels, and start at the first label and the top of the plan, and transfer from paper to the soil and the paper can be laid away to wait for notes later in the season.

If the paper plan has been drawn to scale as it should be it is an easy matter to label out the rows on a tape measure.

The garden plan is the blue print, so to speak, with the specifications for the garden you are to build. If it has been worked out in the careful detail it should be, it will be a simple matter to follow it to the dot and the results will prove the efficiency of gardening according to prearranged plan.

Twenty-two boys from Brainerd and the range, under the leadership of S. S. Shaver, Scout Executive, and C. F. Scheuer of Crosby, spent all day Saturday brushing out a road from the main highway into the new camp site on Clearwater lake. This road is a trifle over a half mile in length, and will be smoothed with a scraper this week, to level the bumps.

A new crew of twenty-five or thirty boys will go out next Saturday to put the finishing touches on the road, and do other work. This week the buildings will be transported to the new site from Merrifield, the kitchen set up, and platforms laid for the tents. A new mess hall is being planned for this summer.

Applications for the camping periods will be out today or tomorrow. With the wonderful facilities offered by the new grounds, it is expected that a large number of boys will avail themselves of the opportunity to spend part of their vacation at camp.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Mrs. E. O. Webb Generously Opens Home For Meeting Afternoon of May 8th

Mrs. E. O. Webb has generously offered to open her home for the last meeting of the League of Women Voters, on the afternoon of May 8th. At this meeting Miss Isabel Lawrence of St. Cloud will tell of the plans for work for the coming year, as approved at the national convention at Richmond, Va.

The E. O. Webb home is sufficiently commodious to accommodate every member of the League, as well as prospective members, and it is hoped that there may be a "capacity" house. Friends and former pupils of Miss Lawrence, whether members or not, are cordially invited to attend. The meeting has been set at 3:30 and, as there will be a short musical program, this will enable teachers to hear most of her talk and to attend the social hour that will follow.

The social committee will probably have an announcement to make later, that will make this program still more attractive.

The Home Follows the Automobile, Which Follows Oil

The petroleum industry is a vital factor in upbuilding the home.

Statistics prove that the states which lead in the number of motor cars per 1000 population have the highest percentage of homes owned. Since 1915, home building has followed in direct ratio, the increase in motor car production.

The home follows the automobile, and the automobile followed the wide distribution of gasoline and oils at prices which all can afford to pay.

The low price of gasoline and oil which makes the universal use of the automobile possible is due solely to the intensive scientific work of the petroleum industry.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) by the application of modern refinery processes has taken a leading part in creating enormous additional percentages of gasoline from crude. In addition, it has put into operation the first modern, and the most complete system for distribution of oil products.

A few years ago the horse and buggy was the mark of affluence. Only the well-to-do felt able to enjoy such luxury. Today, hundreds of thousands of people go to and from their work in a motor car. Motor vehicles carry 289,000 children to school, every day of the school year.

Home owning is nation building. Crowded industrial cities once threatened to reduce all American families to the ranks of apartment dwellers. The production of an abundance of high-grade, refined petroleum was the scientific achievement which, by making automotive transportation at low cost possible, gave every worker the opportunity to put 20 miles or more between home and job, and enabled him to bring up his children where the air is fresh and the grass is green.

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service puts oil at the disposal of every motorist in the Middle West. In perfecting this service, this Company has contributed to the upbuilding of thousands upon thousands of happy American homes.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud of its part in such constructive work. It is by such achievements that this company attains enduring success.

Ages of Attendants 15 to 24, Open to All Schools of the County

The Annual Young People's Conference on Sunday school work will be held at the Methodist church in Brainerd, Friday night, Saturday and Sunday, May 15, 16, and 17. This conference is for all interested in Sunday school work among people from 15 to 24 years of age, and is open to all schools in Crow Wing county.

Strout as adult advisor.

Out-of-town leaders of the conference include Miss Margaret McCaslin of Minneapolis, and James C. Garrison, State Superintendent. An interesting and instructive program is being prepared, largely made up of demonstrations and talks by young people themselves.

On the Saturday night of the conference, a banquet is being planned, under the direction of Mrs. G. E. Senn. The registration fee of fifty cents will include admission to this banquet.

Registrations are now coming in, and all should be in by May 8th. Mearle Storm is chairman of the registration committee. It is expected that two hundred will register. One country Sunday school is planning to send ten delegates. Others are coming from the range towns, Pequot, Deerwood, and other points.

Early Roman heroes put state first. This accounts for much of their bravery but their undaunted courage was theirs because they spoke the truth and remained faithful to their agreements. Men and women who desire to be leaders must first reach the above ideal in their own lives.

BOY SCOUTS MAKE NEW ROAD

Brush Out Highway Leading to New Camp Site on Clearwater Lake

IS HALF MILE IN LENGTH

Will be Smoothed With Scraper This Week and Bumps Levelled

Twenty-two boys from Brainerd and the range, under the leadership of S. S. Shaver, Scout Executive, and C. F. Scheuer of Crosby, spent all day Saturday brushing out a road from the main highway into the new camp site on Clearwater lake. This road is a trifle over a half mile in length, and will be smoothed with a scraper this week, to level the bumps.

A new crew of twenty-five or thirty boys will go out next Saturday to put the finishing touches on the road, and do other work. This week the buildings will be transported to the new site from Merrifield, the kitchen set up, and platforms laid for the tents. A new mess hall is being planned for this summer.

Applications for the camping periods will be out today or tomorrow. With the wonderful facilities offered by the new grounds, it is expected that a large number of boys will avail themselves of the opportunity to spend part of their vacation at camp.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Mrs. E. O. Webb Generously Opens Home For Meeting Afternoon of May 8th

Mrs. E. O. Webb has generously offered to open her home for the last meeting of the League of Women Voters, on the afternoon of May 8th. At this meeting Miss Isabel Lawrence of St. Cloud will tell of the plans for work for the coming year, as approved at the national convention at Richmond, Vt.

The E. O. Webb home is sufficiently commodious to accommodate every member of the League, as well as prospective members, and it is hoped that there may be a "capacity" house. Friends and former pupils of Miss Lawrence, whether members or not, are cordially invited to attend. The meeting has been set at 3:30 and, as there will be a short musical program, this will enable teachers to hear most of her talk and to attend the social hour that will follow.

The social committee will probably have an announcement to make later, that will make this program still more attractive.

RUTH'S ATTACK NOT PUBLICITY STUNT

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, May 3.—Theatrical producers always have been envious of the publicity that professional baseball gets from the newspapers. Actors are all more or less jealous of the space that is devoted to the exploits of ball players. They claim that professional baseball is no more of a sport than theatricals and that it should be classified as an amusement and treated as such.

When Babe Ruth was carried out of the Pennsylvania station here several weeks ago after he had collapsed and when the presses of all the metropolitan papers were being held ready for an extra, a well-known producer at one of the theatrical clubs said:

"Perfectly staged. Not a flaw in design or execution. A million dollars' worth of publicity."

The Babe will be out of the game for at least a month and in that time the Yankees might lose so much distance that they couldn't regain it during the rest of the season. The importance of the Babe to the Yankee team has been shown time after time. He is not only a great hitter and a fine defensive player, but he is the real spirit and inspiration of the whole team.

It is absurd to think that the Yankees would keep the Babe out of the lineup for a month or six weeks just to make good a publicity scheme.

Ruth no doubt will come out of the experience all to the good. He will be in better physical condition after the rest and while he will be much lighter, he will be stronger, as four weeks on a special diet will be just what was needed for his abused stomach.

Many causes of the Babe's illness are being whispered around and all of them but one are wrong. Ruth eats too much and that is what brings about all his troubles. He eats more and oftener than any three men on the Yankee team and he eats at the worst time. He has a big meal before he goes to the park and before the game he usually takes on three or four hot dog sandwiches and a couple of bottles of soda. When the natural kick-back comes, he fills up on bicarbonate of soda. He takes on a huge meal at dinner time and then gets hungry about mid night and goes to bed with a loaded stomach.

His doctors told him two years ago that he would have to watch his diet or that he would eat his way clear out of baseball, but the Babe is one who figures, what's the use in being hungry when you have money.

CLOSE GAME WAS PLAYED IN LITTLE FALLS

N. P. SHOPS TEAM DEFEATED 4 TO 3 BY LITTLE FALLS LEAGUE TEAM

JONES HELD LITTLE FALLS TO 4 HITS, HANSON HIT HOME RUN OVER FENCE

The N. P. Shops team journeyed to Little Falls yesterday afternoon and met defeat at the hands of the league team of that city, to the tune of 4 to 3. A number of Brainerd fans accompanied the team to the scene of the fray.

The game was a battle of left-handers, Jones of Brainerd and Boche of Little Falls staging a pretty duel, with honors about even. Jones held the down-river sluggers to four hits, one a double, while the Shopmen touched Boche for six hits, three singles, a double, a triple, and a home-run. Ringer, with a single and a triple, and Hanson, with a home-run over the right center fence, shared batting honors. Norman, Brainerd's catcher, made one of the longest hits inside the fence ever seen on that field, pounding the ball to deep center, but fast playing by the Little Falls defense, held him to two bases.

Ringer was also the fielding star of the Brainerd team, taking one hard hit fly off the fence for a spectacular out. His teammates did not fare so well, however, seven errors being charged against them. Thorildson made three errors, and Peterson, Norman, Hanson and Uddenberg each one.

Little Falls scored twice in the first inning, on two walks, a single, and an error. In the second Norman made a double and scored on Ringer's triple. No more scores were made until the seventh. In Brainerd's turn at bat, Ringer, first up, singled and was advanced to second on Schwindemann's sacrifice. Then Hanson leaned his war club against one of Boche's offerings, sending the pellet over the fence, and scoring Ringer ahead of him. In the home team's half, Little Falls again took the lead, scoring two runs on two singles, a hit batsman and an error.

Jones struck out thirteen and Boche fourteen. Norman caught for Brainerd, and Tanner for Little Falls. Batters of Little Falls unimpeded, giving highly satisfactory service. Score by innings: R. H. E. Brainerd Shops 010000200—3 6 7 Little Falls.....200000200—4 4 1

TEAM SAVED FROM ANNIHILATION
St. Paul, May 4.—The city baseball team has been saved from annihilation.

Had it not been for the foresight of Chief of Police J. Murnane, members of the nine might not have returned to their homes Saturday night after the scheduled game with the convict team at Stillwater prison.

Deciding that uniforms were necessary, Tom O'Connell, deputy commissioner of public works and team manager, decided to appropriate suits used by the police department in annual spring struggles.

Receiving the request, Chief Murnane, merely as a matter of curiosity asked the record of the opposing team. "We are playing the Stillwater convicts team," said O'Connell.

After recovering, Chief Murnane decided that police uniforms might not be the best for any team opposing the inmates at Stillwater.

The team was attired in fire department uniforms.

BRAINERD HIGH 20, CROSBY-IRONTON 12, SATURDAY GAME

LOCALS RUN WILD IN THIRD INNING, GETTING 13 RUNS

WOOCK POUNDED HARD AND RELIEVED BY JELLED IN THIRD

Brainerd High School won a loosely played game at the Koorling field Saturday afternoon, defeating Crosby-Ironton by a score of 20-12. The locals went wild in the third inning, thirteen runs dribbling across the plate before the range boys could stop the stampede. Woock, who started the game on the mound for Crosby, was pounded hard in this inning, and was relieved by Jelless.

Engbretson pitched for Brainerd for six innings, and then, with an insurmountable lead, gave way to Avery, who did nice work the remainder of the game. All of the Brainerd players used the willow effectively, with Swanson the heavy hitter, his contribution being four hits in four trips to the plate, two of his singles being good for two bases.

The defensive work on both sides was loose. Errors were frequent. Brainerd's scoring in the third inning, however, was the result of some good bat work. Andy Smraker umpired the game. A detailed report of the game will appear in the Brainerdian tomorrow evening.

RUTH'S ATTACK NOT PUBLICITY STUNT

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, May 3.—Theatrical producers always have been envious of the publicity that professional baseball gets from the newspapers. Actors are all more or less jealous of the space that is devoted to the exploits of ball players. They claim that professional baseball is no more of a sport than theatricals and that it should be classified as an amusement and treated as such.

When Babe Ruth was carried out of the Pennsylvania station here several weeks ago after he had collapsed and when the presses of all the metropolitan papers were being held ready for an extra, a well-known producer at one of the theatrical clubs said:

"Perfectly staged. Not a flaw in design or execution. A million dollars' worth of publicity."

The Babe will be out of the game for at least a month and in that time the Yankees might lose so much distance that they couldn't regain it during the rest of the season. The importance of the Babe to the Yankee team has been shown time after time. He is not only a great hitter and a fine defensive player, but he is the real spirit and inspiration of the whole team.

It is absurd to think that the Yankees would keep the Babe out of the lineup for a month or six weeks just to make good a publicity scheme.

Ruth no doubt will come out of the experience all to the good. He will be in better physical condition after the rest and while he will be much lighter, he will be stronger, as four weeks on a special diet will be just what was needed for his abused stomach.

Many causes of the Babe's illness are being whispered around and all of them but one are wrong. Ruth eats too much and that is what brings about all his troubles. He eats more and oftener than any three men on the Yankee team and he eats at the worst time. He has a big meal before he goes to the park and before the game he usually takes on three or four hot dog sandwiches and a couple of bottles of soda. When the natural kick-back comes, he fills up on bicarbonate of soda. He takes on a huge meal at dinner time and then gets hungry about mid night and goes to bed with a loaded stomach.

His doctors told him two years ago that he would have to watch his diet or that he would eat his way clear out of baseball, but the Babe is one who figures, what's the use in being hungry when you have money.

CLOSE GAME

LITTLE FALLSN. P. SHOPS TEAM DEFEATED 4
TO 3 BY LITTLE FALLS
LEAGUE TEAMJONES HELD LITTLE FALLS TO 4
HITS, HANSON HIT HOME RUN OVER FENCE

The N. P. Shops team journeyed to Little Falls yesterday afternoon and met defeat at the hands of the league team of that city, to the tune of 4 to 3. A number of Brainerd fans accompanied the team to the scene of the fray.

The game was a battle of left-handers, Jones of Brainerd and Boche of Little Falls staging a pretty duel, with honors about even. Jones held the down-river sluggers to four hits, one a double, while the Shopmen touched Boche for six hits, three singles, a double, a triple, and a home-run. Ringer, with a single and a triple, and Hanson, with a home-run over the right center fence, shared batting honors. Norman, Brainerd's catcher, made one of the longest hits inside the fence ever seen on that field, pounding the ball to deep center, but fast playing by the Little Falls defense, held him to two bases.

Ringer was also the fielding star of the Brainerd team, taking one hard hit fly off the fence for a spectacular out. His teammates did not fare so well, however, seven errors being charged against them. Thoroldson made three errors, and Peterson, Norman, Hanson and Uddenberg each one.

Little Falls scored twice in the first inning, on two walks, a single, and an error. In the second Norman made a double and scored on Ringer's triple. No more scores were made until the seventh. In Brainerd's turn at bat, Ringer, first up, singled and was advanced to second on Schwindemann's sacrifice. Then Hanson leaped his war club against one of Boche's offerings, sending the pellet over the fence, and scoring Ringer ahead of him. In the home team's half, Little Falls again took the lead, scoring two runs on two singles, a hit batsman and an error.

Jones struck out thirteen and Boche fourteen. Norman caught for Brainerd, and Tanner for Little Falls. Batters of Little Falls unimpeded, giving highly satisfactory service.

WILD DUCKS IN FLIGHT NORTHWARDSPORTSMEN WITNESS EXTRAOR-DINARY PASSAGE IN MIS-
SISIPPI VALLEY

(By United Press)

St. Paul, May 4.—An extraordinary flight of wild ducks northward was marked by sportsmen in the Mississippi Valley Sunday.

While the flight apparently skirted the Twin Cities, reports from Winona, Red Wing and Hastings said thousands of ducks were seen flying northward late Sunday afternoon following the general course of the Mississippi river. It was unusual to see so many ducks moving at once, sportsmen said.

CROSBY-IRONTON 12,
SATURDAY GAMELOCALS RUN WILD IN THIRD IN-NING, GETTING 13
RUNSWOOCK POUNDED HARD AND RE-
LIEVED BY JELLED
IN THIRD

Brainerd High School won a loosely played game at the Koering field Saturday afternoon, defeating Crosby-Ironton by a score of 20-12. The locals went wild in the third inning, thirteen runs dribbling across the plate before the range boys could stop the stampede. Woock, who started the game on the mound for Crosby, was pounded hard in this inning, and was relieved by Jelless. Engbretson pitched for Brainerd for six innings, and then, with an insurmountable lead, gave way to Avery, who did nice work the remainder of the game. All of the Brainerd players used the willow effectively, with Swanson the heavy hitter, his contribution being four hits in four trips to the plate, two of his singles being good for two bases.

The defensive work on both sides was loose. Errors were frequent. Brainerd's scoring in the third inning, however, was the result of some good bat work. Andy Smraker umpired the game. A detailed report of the game will appear in the Brainerdian tomorrow evening.

Receiving the request, Chief Murnane, merely as a matter of curiosity asked the record of the opposing team.

"We are playing the Stillwater convicts team," said O'Connell.

After recovering, Chief Murnane decided that police uniforms might not be the best for any team opposing the inmates at Stillwater.

The team was attired in fire department uniforms.
